Your Big Break Final Round: A Tribute to 50th Anniversary of Woodstock

@ 7:30pm / $10-$20
Gold Coast Arts Center, 113 Middle Neck Road, Great Neck.
info@gcac.org, #5168292570

Local high school and college musicians will perform for music business professionals and great prizes in the final round of Your Big Break, hosted by the Gold Coast Arts Center and Love Revolution Org. The competition is open to all musicians, ages 15 to 25, who do not currently have a recording or publishing contract and reside on Long Island or in the tri-state area. Artists must perform with a band, solo with an acoustic guitar, or sing to a backing music track. This year's final competition will pay tribute to the 50th anniversary of Woodstock. The five finalists, chosen from over 1,000 entries, will be performing songs by artists who appeared at the iconic music festival. They include: Jackie Romeo, a 15-year-old from Massapequa who will perform "Somebody to Love" by Jefferson Airplane; Over the Garden Wall, a band comprised of Jonathan Gardyn of Westbury, Ryan Wall of Valley Stream and Aidan Larenas of Garden City who will perform "Can't Explain" by The Who; Arizona Lindsey, a 22-year-old country-pop singer/songwriter from Lindenhurst who will perform "The Last Thing on My Mind" by Joan Baez; A Band Called Sad, an alternative rock band who will perform the Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young classic, "Wooden Ships"; and Lydia von Hof, a 16-year old singer, piano player, and songwriter from Commack who will perform "Summertime" by Janis Joplin.
